

Bertie Bolt

A Story about Bertie Bolt
and Sam Spanner

by
Will Fox

First published in 2013

Beecroft Publishing

a trading division of Specialist Computing Limited

Beecroft

Crittenden Road

Matfield, Kent

TN12 7EQ

United Kingdom

www.beecroftpublishing.co.uk

email: sales@beecroftpublishing.co.uk

ISBN 978-1-908865-20-5

Copyright © 2013

All rights reserved around the world. This publication is copyrighted and may not be reproduced, in whole or in part, in any manner (except for excerpts thereof for bona fida purposes in accordance with the Copyright Act) without the prior permission in writing from Beecroft Publishing.

It was early in the morning and all was quiet in the garage. The tools were tired because they were working very hard the previous day. Most of the tools were asleep except for the saw hanging on the wall. He was snoring very loudly, 'zzzzzzzz', and kept some of the other tools awake.

Sam Spanner who was sound asleep on the workbench was awoken by another noise. It sounded like someone groaning, 'aargh', and it was coming from one of the cupboards in the garage. At first the noise was fairly quiet. Then there was another groan, 'aargh'. This time the groan was much louder.

Sam Spanner looked up at the cupboard, and wondered what was causing the noise. A few seconds later there was yet another groan, 'AARGH', and this time the noise was even louder than before.

Sam Spanner got up and went over to the cupboard. 'Knock-knock', Spanner tapped on the cupboard door while asking, 'is anyone inside?' There was complete silence. Spanner tapped on the door again, 'Knock-knock', but no noise could be heard in the cupboard. Spanner returned to the workbench because he did not find anything in the cupboard.